

India Biotechnology Firm Introduces Two New Vaccines

Sep 05, 2007

Bharat Biotech International (BBIL) has recently introduced two new vaccines related to influenza prevention.

BioHib is the first indigenously developed and manufactured Haemophilus Influenza Type B (Hib) vaccine in India. The vaccine is considered safe and affordable which offers complete protection against Hib infection.

The second by BBIL firm is Comvac 4-HB, which is a tetravalent combination vaccine. The Comvac4-HB and BioHib enable the deployment of a combination pentavalent vaccine in a single injection.

The firm has made huge investments over the past four years into its Research and Development capabilities and its manufacturing facilities to develop these two vaccines.
